is it Council policy to invite people to "consult" on such developments (and the earlier plan for Dursley last autumn) and then provide such illegible maps that NO ONE could be expected to get a true view of what your plans are--enlarging them only makes them worse. This is a formal complaint, as I don't think that such "consultations" are fair and democratic. I am thinking of referring this policy to the Local Government Ombudsman, as it does not seem properly democratic--the plan is loaded against fair representation by the public. In case you hadn't noticed, Dursley now has no banks left--Barclays closed a few weeks ago.
