Hi there,

I would like to oppose The brimscombe to sapperton canal restoration. As a chalford resident I see on a daily basis the abundance of nature and wildlife along this stretch and feel so thankful that these wild places still exist. With the huge decline in biodiversity we need to be not only protecting these areas but aiming for net positive. To remove the vegetation and concrete the paths would in my opinion be a crime against this earth.

This area has wilded itself over the last 100 years and and has weaved an incredible network of nature that would be lost should this project go ahead.

It's time for the sake of our own future on this earth to start protecting these important areas and not let greed and tourism be a reason for their decline.

Yours sincerely
